

Stolen art

A reward is slated to be announced today for the return of the $25,000 bronze sculpture—"The Spirit of DuSable"—recently stolen from Washington Park. Officials of the DuSable Museum said the statue, in honor of the Black founder of Chicago, was the "pride of Chicago." The amount of the reward will be determined by the museum's board of directors.

Approved with permission of the copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.